We are looking for a motivated Manual Tester (m/f/d)

AppYourself is one of the world's leading SaaS providers for mobile apps. From small businesses to medium-sized companies and even public administration from all over the world - many companies and organizations are already using AppYourself's app building platform!

With around 25 employees in Germany and Poland, we are an agile, multi-national team of app experts, marketing enthusiasts and people who want to make a difference.

As part of the German Heise Group but still with independent and flexible structures and a personal work environment, we revolutionize the app market with unconventional ideas.

Main responsibilities

As a Manual Tester, you will support our development and operation teams in:

- Planning, executing and updating manual test cases as assigned
- Analysis of the requirements, and creating scope of testing
- Create test scenarios, test scripts/cases, and participate in walk-throughs for approvals
- Analysis and design of test cases,
- Maintaining test plans, scenarios, scripts, and procedures
- Detecting and reporting bugs during the testing process
- Creating technical documentation
- Collaboration with other teams in our startup

Your skills and qualifications

- Can-do attitude and Strong focus on efficiency
- Good spoken and written English
- Quickly grasp technical concepts and be willing to get to know our product

What we can offer

- Working in an established startup (10 years on the market) on an innovative product for an innovative market leader
- Friendly and personal working atmosphere in an international team
- Flexible work and home office
- Flexible contract setting (permanent or B2B) and competitive salary
- Various benefits: private medical care, life insurance, Multilife program, learning platform, office snacks
- Best office location in the heart of Łódź: OFF Piotrkowska Center

We are looking forward to get to know you. Please send your application to: jobs@appyourself.net